

For our January club meeting Skip Morris will be doing a zoom presentation for club members.

Skip Morris, the down-to-earth author of nineteen books on tying flies and fly fishing (including the best-selling beginner's book, Fly Tying Made Clear and Simple), and Carol Ann Morris, whose artful photography and detailed watercolors have been published in major fly fishing magazines (ie, Gray's Sporting Journal, Fly Fishing & Tying Journal, Yale Angler's Journal, and others), and also in Skip's books and articles.

They are a husband-and-wife team who've been fishing together for over twenty five years, and we love sharing our passion for fly fishing. They will provide you with clear and simple instruction to make your journey into this sport fun and informative.

Presentation: Roughly 50 minutes

Fly Fishing for Bass & Panfish

Largemouth bass, smallmouth bass, and panfish are the subject, from a fly-fishing perspective. This is largely an instructional powerpoint presentation—how to prepare, how to get out and catch these much misunderstood and worthy fishes. But as with all my shows (and I say this from experience and because it is appropriate here, not from egotism) the audience will be entertained. Surprisingly, I have twice taken this show to the deep South—the best bass water in the world— as a request to show the local boys what they are missing and how to take advantage of what they have. Interest in fly fishing for bass and panfish is clearly growing; accordingly, so is curiosity about this marvelous still-under-appreciated sport.

There will also be a 30 minute tying session to go along with this presentation. I do know know which flies he will be tying, but here are some of the Skip Morris original patterns.
